Perched on a gentle hill and framed by native trees and rolling terrain, this 2011 ranch-style home offers privacy and stunning scenery. This hard-to-find 43.7 acre parcel is perfect for families, hobby farmers, or anyone craving a peaceful rural lifestyle. Inside, soothing paint tones and warm cork flooring create an inviting atmosphere. The main entrance features a convenient coat closet and leads into a bright living room highlighted by large windows and a wood-burning fireplace with custom stone and tile surround. The adjoining dining area offers easy flow for family meals, while the sunroom—filled with natural light—includes a garden door leading to the deck. The thoughtfully designed kitchen features an angled peninsula facing the living room so you can stay connected while preparing meals. A corner pantry and built-in desk area add functionality and storage. The spacious primary bedroom includes a 4-piece ensuite with generous counterspace. A half bath sits just off the hallway on the way to the mudroom, which also houses the laundry area complete with a sink and extra cabinets. Downstairs, the wide-open family room provides endless flexibility—whether you envision a home gym, entertainment zone, kids play space, or craft area. A cozy wood-burning stove sits in the corner. The basement also includes three large bedrooms, a bright 4-piece bathroom, a storage room with built-in shelving for pantry items, a cold room, and a tidy mechanical room. The home features a central vac, ICF block construction to the rafters, and the in-floor heat in the basement has been roughed in. Outdoors, the veranda spans the front of the home, offering a sheltered place to relax and enjoy the surrounding nature. This flows into a large lower deck with ample space for outdoor furniture and a barbeque, perfect for hosting gatherings. The two-car garage includes shelving and a workbench, ideal for projects and hobbies. The yard is nicely landscaped with shrub beds and trees, along with two fenced garden areas and compost bins—ready for anyone with a green thumb. This acreage offers an exceptional blend of privacy, practicality, and rural charm, providing the perfect setting for a country lifestyle.
