Set on a quiet street at the very south end of town, this solid 1981 bungalow offers the kind of space, layout, and long term potential that's getting harder to find. With 1,411 square feet on the main level, a fully finished basement, an attached garage, and a 60-foot lot, this is a home that invites you to look past the cosmetics and focus on what truly matters: size, structure, and setting. Inside, the main floor follows a classic bungalow layout that remains popular for good reason. The living and dining rooms are anchored by a double sided wood burning fireplace and patio doors off the dining area lead to the rear deck and yard. The main floor is home to 3 bedrooms, including a generously sized primary bedroom with a 3pc en-suite featuring an updated tiled shower. A second 4pc bathroom has had a renovation started with a corner tiled shower and awaits your personal choice completion. Downstairs, the finished basement significantly extends the living space. A very large rumpus room and gas fireplace make it a flexible area for recreation, media, or hobbies. There is one large bedroom, another room currently used as an office/craft space that could be a bedroom if needed plus there's another space on the other end of the house that could be converted into a bedroom if desired. A 3pc bathroom, laundry area and storage pantry complete this level. A few other features include A/C, solar panels, updated furnace and water tank along with some pvc windows. The yard has a large shed and parking for your RV or extra vehicles and it all backs onto a field rather than houses for more privacy. For buyers who understand potential and are willing to put their own stamp on a home, this is a chance to start with space and strong bones.
